

From 'copy, paste' to 'copy, copy, paste, copy, paste, copy, paste, paste'

A productivity fruit that hangs so low it sits on the ground:

Use a Clipboard History Manager

If you use a computer, take a second and install one. Having multiple levels of copy and paste is small but significant. You can just keep copying and copying information from a source, without worrying about ferrying the information over to the destination.

For Mac, I've only used Clipy. But there's a lot of options, just type 'clipboard manager' into github or google.

a labor of love by jsk love © 2022-2025

Tags Archive RSS feed

Made with Montaigne and bigmission 